Fire Damages Local Landmark

Templeton Peck

A minor but extensive fire broke out in the AT&T building early Saturday morning. The fire damaged one elevator shaft and caused issues with radio transmission for several minutes. Early reports of an individual jumping to escape the fire proved unfounded.

Repairs should not interrupt business for most tenants.

Maggiano's Suffers Publicity Blow

John Smith

An apparent media prank by an unknown individual has affected business at a local Nashville eatery. During a press conference announcing the formation of the Bullsworth Foundation, a charity continuing the work of the missing Reverend Bullsworth, a man claiming to be from Maggiano's Little Italy made several racist and disturbing remarks.

The owners of Maggiano's have stated that the man had no connection to their restaurant. The Reverend Al Sharpton noted in a statement that all chefs on their website are Caucasian in appearance, and have demanded that they hire minorities in culinary leadership positions.

Tragedy in the Park: Memories endure as city moves on Dogs return to the site of the shooting that killed several members of law enforcement on the 7th.

Festival of Food August Delight

Bosco Baracas

Local foodies are abuzz, and the restaurants and food trucks that cater to the increasingly gourmet demands of Nashville are preparing for the first annual Nashville Fresh Food Faire.

"We are looking at our city becoming the foremost practitioner of several of the food movements in the country. Farm to plate, localvarian and seasonal menus will be featured at the day long festival. Local music, art and activities will complement the food, and we will have several speakers presenting the health benefits of locally grown produce", said Tom Mallard, the director of the festival.

When and Where: The Nashville Fresh Food Faire will be held August 4th, 11am to 11pm in Bicentennial Park and in the neighboring Nashville Farmers Market.

Mayor: "We need assistance"

Rodereck Decker

Mayor Dean spoke on Wednesday, calling for aid to handle the rapidly escalating problems in East Nashville, including the recent murder of law enforcement officers.

"We are seeing the ramifications of an organized force whose presence does not end at our city borders, and which must be fought in tandem with outside law enforcement and protection. My office has begun to seek that aid."

Later in the speech he noted in a blunt manner, "Speaking frankly: We need assistance here and now."

The mayor's office did not respond to inquiries regarding what specific aid was being sought. They did confirm that the plans for TSA stops to improve safety have been put on indefinite hold.

STREET RUMORS

These are loose rumors that have popped up between the last game and now. Your Storyteller is not to be trusted: some rumors listed here may be false or dead ends. Suggested rolls for downtime actions are given following some rumors, but feel free to use anything you want. What you roll determines the type of information, and the number of successes determines the amount of information.

When Ramadan ends, there will be a major move against the Frist.

The press is focusing on PAAI, but there are multiple groups organizing in Nashville, some more violent than others. The homeless are working to protect themselves.

The homeless in East Nashville are quiet and careful. They are still appearing in downtown Nashville, but in low numbers.

There are still CDC vans in East Nashville, doing something.

Several of the Nashville Foodies are desperately seeking good veggies. Apparently, whatever made Nashville produce really really good is hard to find.

The Frist's resident ghost has disappeared.

Jump is now a steady part of the Nashville drug scene. Some jump is no good, but there are still sources popping up. Some junkies are going through violent withdrawal.

Some people are having nightmares about the night sky and something huge looming in the sky or the world changing this fall.

East Nashville continues to be bare of kindred.

Local Carthians have been calling emergency councils. Something went wrong in the AT&T building.

A neonate used a violent discipline in Elysium. Thank goodness it was the property of a Crone: they have no official city status.

Now that Vampire Killer, Werewolf Killer and Zombie Killer bullets have appeared in local gun stores, they are selling like hotcakes. Boxes of the shells come with free "Edward" and "Jacob" range targets.

Kindred have arrived in town to deal with what our Invictus Prince has failed to deal with.

Baroness Lolombe Pachia has left the city, very abruptly.

VII and worse are descending on Nashville. We have become a target destination for power seekers, problem solvers and the unwise.

Nosferatu are starting to meet to discuss a clan solution to the issue of their traditional feeding ground having been claimed by a demon.

Lots of ghouls around. People are still freaked out about the vampire killers. People are taking self defense and safety courses. It is getting downright hard to feed in this town.

FEEDING RESISTANCE- 8

RECENTLY...

Seriously. Do not take a position that starts with S. You will die: either remarkably quickly or slowly and fuzzily. K seems to be pretty unhealthy as well.

All pretense has been laid aside: there is now a war on between the Kindred and whatever demon it is that holds East Nashville. Two different predators fighting over territory and their herds of prey.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The venue opens at 3pm. Hard roleplay starts at 5pm. Please sign-in with Craig, and start roleplaying at any time: if you have soft RP scenes, including those finishing up from email, feel free to do so from 3 to 5. At 5, hard RP starts (non-narrative roleplaying).

Due to GenCon and a wedding, there will likely be a flip-flop of Vampire and Werewolf in September. We'll discuss it after game to make sure that it works for the largest number of players. I always aim at trying to keep to a strict calendar, but the way things laid out, it is going to be unavoidable.

If you do not know what a task card is, ask around or ask the ST or Narrator (Evan or Craig).

The extra XP this week is in game.
