Group gains new Identity

Horatio Caine

Christian Identity, for the first time since it's inception and inclusion within the Nashville area, opened it's doors to the public, allowing anyone interested in their organization to see what they stand for.

What many people saw when they attended made them speak highly of the controversial group, who have changed their purpose from their old lives to a new, speaking of joining together "for the greater good." No one has been able to say what this greater good is.

Alex Cross in Franklin Festival

Leroy Gibbs

Franklin is hosting their annual street festival, starting at 10am on Saturday. This street festival is scheduled to have a lot of people attend, including an up-and-coming local artist, Alex Cross.

Alex is a Nashville native, growing up in Hendersonville, and began musical exploration when he was young. Just recently, he has broken into the music scene with his hit song, "Seasons," that was released on local airwaves earlier this month.

Experimenting with styles, Alex has been said to be in the studio, recording a new album to be released by the beginning of next year. His album Stories of Sound is in stores now.

Christian Identity shows a new face

Christian Identity opens it's doors for the first time, allowing those curious about their movement to experience it for themselves.

Chief Promises Change

Gil Grissom

After taking his place as the new police chief of Nashville Metropolitan Police Department, Lucas Patterson has begun to make sweeping changes. Rampant signs of corruption have been exposed through rigorous searches, and many officers have been let go because of it.

Patterson had this to say on the matter. "The police department, now that I have become Chief, is in serious need of reorganization. While Anderson was in place, things seem to have gone into serious disrepair, and it's time to clean up the city."

He went on to explain his dedication, as well as his plans to fix the Department from the inside out. There are many plans for consolidation of Police resources, as well as new patrols. For now, Police are moving to longer, tighter patrol shifts, to ensure that crime is stopped before it occurs.

Wilderness Miracle Draws Attention

Mac Taylor

Researchers with the People for Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) and the Environmental Resource Agency (ERA) have come to the Radnor Lake area, to hopefully determine the mysterious gathering of animals.

The ERA's involvement has been requested due to reports of an unknown organism growing around the edge of the lake. Those that reported the organism have described it differently every time, but the consistency of the reports have set the ERA in motion.

Original reports began a month ago, where animals were beginning to gather in abnormal groups and quantities. As time went on, these animals began to interact with each other in unusual ways, with normal predators and prey interacting as if they were family.

A battered hobo is talking, it just doesn't seem to be intelligible.

Hooded teenagers are starting to show up other places now too. First Shelby Street Pedestrian Bridge, and now under the Jefferson Street Bridge.

The new Egyptian immigrants have shown a keen interest in the Bahá'í Faith Community Center.

Green fungus looks to be growing around the edge of Radnor Lake, but it hasn't scared the animals away.

Along with the shuffling leadership, Patterson appears to be laying off a lot of police. That won't make those remaining very happy.

Christian Identity has opened its doors, and they let black guys in? New identity indeed.

Alex Cross is back in the game? I thought I heard about that guy a couple years ago. Where's he been since then?

Unknown spirits are popping up all over south of Nashville. The Striders in Brentwood can't determine what they are, or why they're showing up.

There are other wolves prowling around. Looks to be Ronin.

The Fianna Kinfolk have taken up a den under an uprooted tree in Shelby Bottoms. And they're being quite protective of that area.

Bahá'í Faith Community Center has raised in spirit activity, and the spirits seem Gaian in appearance.

Derek Johnson is back.

Every lake and river spirits has a collar, and are acting quite different than usual.

The spiritual activity around Radnor Lake has changed dramatically. Triat spirits seem to have melded, and what they are now is completely foreign, and new.

Is Chuck hanging out with the Interrupts? I thought they didn't get along?

With the Alpha gone on a spirit quest, the Sept is being led by Varg. How good of a leader can a beat stick be?

The prey animal corpses seem to have lessened, but are still being found, left deliberately outside the bawn's edge.

A challenge for Elder Philodox, and a rank challenge, punctuated the moot. Lots of stories, not so many challenges.

And lots of bodies.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The venue opens at 3pm, but due to work schedules, the STs are unable to arrive prior to 5pm. Because of this, check-in starts at 5:30 pm, and start roleplaying at any time: if you have soft RP scenes, including those finishing up from email, feel free to do so at any time prior to 5:30pm. The extra XP this week is in game.
