

Nashville Chief-Gazette

Serving the News that Helps your Daily Lives

Seventy Five Cents

Unknown Man Causes Stir

Jackie Burkhart

A mysterious report from casual citizens has started a manhunt for an oddly dressed man, seen fleeing from a warehouse complex where there were reports of a conflict, with loud screaming and the sounds of bestial ferocity.

The man, pictured in conceptual art (see right) as a Mayan warrior, was seen on foot, running for cover away from the warehouse complex before he disappeared. Originally being written off as a false report of violence, the rumors were reopened in light of the appearance of the suspicious man.

Police officials are looking for any information in regards to this man's whereabouts.

Colorful Artwork Turns Haunting

Eric Foreman

The colors over bridge-ways and long stretches of wall have begun to take on a more haunting feel, in light of Halloween. Where they were once neon colors, they are now dark, pale and creepy versions of themselves.

It appears that the artists, who are still not coming out to reveal themselves, have a thing for the holiday, and even the images' faces have been changed into angry, or scary, versions of what they were.

Unknown Native Man on the Loose

An artist rendering of a man seen running from a warehouse complex a month ago has spurred a heightened search into the man's whereabouts. With the recent rumors of a conflict taking place in that warehouse complex, officials are determined to track him down to determine what happened.

New TV Series to Film in Nashville

Steven Hyde

With the popularity garnered from the television series "Nashville," there seems to be an increased attention beginning to be paid to the Music City.

A new television series has made plans to begin filming in the Greater Nashville area. They have made it known only the briefest of concepts the series will take on; testing psychics to see if they are real or frauds.

"Nashville was chosen," producer Simon Kraft said in a very brief interview, "due to an increase of psychic activity related to sky phenomena. This increase in activity is prime grounds for a [television] show about them."

There has been no work on when filming will begin, but they are currently looking for any willing participants to be a part of their group of psychics.

Local Hero's End

Michael Kelso

Where once, Alex Cross was a local hero, the tragic story of his fall from the public eye has an ever worse ending.

The body of Alex Cross was found along the shore of the Harpeth River, near I-65 in Franklin. The cause of death has been determined to be an animal attack, with claw and teeth marks from multiple animals being found on the body.

Cross suffered the theft of one of his prized possessions, a hand-crafted guitar by a Venezuelan tribe that he had received as a gift, and since then his fall from fame has been regularly steady. His album producer dropped him just as his new album was supposed to be released, and took with him the rights to Cross' first album.

From there, Cross fell out of the public eye completely, reportedly working on completing his album for Independent release. It is unknown what Cross was doing in Franklin.

MUSIC CITY FRENZY - ENRAGED

STREET RUMORS

These are loose rumors that have popped up between the last game and now. Your Storyteller is not to be trusted: some rumors listed here may be false or dead ends. Suggested rolls for downtime actions are given following some rumors, but feel free to use anything you want. What you roll determines the type of information, and the number of successes determines the amount of information.

Don't forget to read the newspaper for the PUBLIC news to look into!

There are no longer any homeless walking around with black eyes, no more students with signs of battery. And they are still not talking about any of it.

The truth behind the colorful images slithers up and down, through the minds of youth and aged alike. The coils of the serpent won't let go any time soon.

The sounds of echoing howls and death-throes were heard from a secluded warehouse complex at the edge of the city. Police report that there is no sign of any conflict.

Did anyone else see the kid dressed as a lion actually turn into one? Or that other zombie kid start gnawing on her friend's head? Weird shit...

The man in the moon is actually something ... else.

Some pretty exciting scientific research is being done, but nothing has been revealed yet. Some pretty explosive results are being discussed in private, however.

GAROU RUMORS

These are loose rumors that have popped up between the last game and now. Your Storyteller is not to be trusted: some rumors listed here may be false or dead ends. Suggested rolls for downtime actions are given following some rumors, but feel free to use anything you want. What you roll determines the type of information, and the number of successes determines the amount of information.

Don't forget to read the newspaper for the PUBLIC news to look into!

People are coming up missing, special people. There is literally no sign of these people, and some of the families don't even remember that loved one.

An offer was made, and now the Strider known as Zian has been poking around a bit more, talking about taking up "the mule" on the offer.

Animal corpses have disappeared now, no longer being blatantly left at the edge of the bawn.

The Tribal Incarna are still missing their items, but now other Incarna are missing things. Even Brigid is missing something...

Lunes have begun talking once more, but are completely avoiding any conversation about Luna or the moon. Are they distancing themselves from their master?

Rumblings in the Penumbra from just south of Springfield have begun to cause spirits to avoid the area. Something just isn't right out there.

The large, colorful snake has begun to finish it's Umbral circle of downtown.

MOON PHASE: GIBBOUS

RECENTLY...

With the Sept leadership having come close to death at the tips of arrows, and mysterious men in white adding color to the city, Solid Rock definitely has it's hands full.

But at least the spirits are seemingly back to normal...

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The venue opens at 3pm, but due to work schedules, the STs are unable to arrive prior to 5pm. Because of this, check-in starts at 5:30 pm, and players can start roleplaying at any time: if you have soft RP scenes, including those finishing up from email, feel free to do so at any time prior to 5:30pm. At 5:30pm, hard RP starts (non-narrative roleplaying).

The Gifts from Classic World of Darkness are being converted into Gift Trees, like those present within New World of Darkness. They are slowly being updated on the wiki. Visit the following website for more information and updates:

<http://www.musiccityfrenzy.com/new-mechanics>

If you do not know what a task card is, ask around or ask one the STs.

Storytellers:

music.city.frenzy.sts@gmail.com

Amber:

roseredneko@gmail.com

Chris:

the.kinky.devil@gmail.com

MusicCityFrenzy.com