Obama wins POTUS First Tennessee Supermajority Goes to State GOP

Jill Stein

Barak Hussein Obama was elected President of the United States of America on Tuesday, defeating Republican Candidate Mitt Romney.

French leader François Hollande said in choosing Obama over Mitt Romney, voters in the United States had voted for "an America of openness and solidarity, fully engaged on the international scene and conscious of the challenges facing our planet: peace, economy and the environment". He listed economic growth, unemployment, and the Middle East as challenges the two politicians would have to face. German leader Angela Merkel stated she "deeply appreciated" meetings and conversations with Obama on issues including "overcoming the global financial and economic crisis".

Locally, new State Legislator Josiah Markelson secured a seat in the State Senate as part of the new Republican Supermajority. Markelson has long been a local Nashville town councilman, and his election is expected to help represent Nashville in state matters.

Astronomical Event Excites Locals

Virgil Goode

NASA held a press conference yesterday to announce confirmation that a meteor will make a visible strike on the lunar surface on the evening of November 24th.

"The moon, which will be four days from full, should have a visible arc, bow or 'horns' above the northern pole, visible to the bare eye, but best seen with binoculars or a telescope. While I encourage people around the world to witness this once in a lifetime event, scientists all over the world will be closely observing to use the collision to determine the composition of the lunar regolith and rocks", said Dr. Shay White.

Republicans took a commanding lead in both houses of the State Legislature. Together with Republican Governor Bill Haslam, they say they will lower food taxes and make Tennessee "the most business friendly state in the country".

Israeli Village left a Ghost Town Hayseeds to Film in Nashville

Rocky Anderson

The Golan Heights neighborhood of Israel, which had been the site of cross-border violence with neighboring Syria, was discovered to have been ravaged by unknown attackers. With only slight damage to buildings, the inhabitants of the area were found dismembered and hang in a ritual fashion, possibly as part of an ethnic hate crime. Israeli military moved into the area and conducted a cleanup of the bodies and smeared blood.

Syrian and Palestinian representatives were quick to deny any knowledge of the events in the community. Hezbollah issued a press release stating that Israel had suffered a biological weapons accident and was unfairly blaming neighboring countries for a disaster of their own making.

In the past month, Syrian rockets had been shot over the border into the neighborhood.

Following the success of "Here Comes Honey Boo Boo", itself a spinoff of "Toddlers & Tiaras", TLC has announced a new show filming in locations around Nashville. "Hayseeds" will be kicked off with a Thanksgiving special tied to Honey Boo Boo's special.

The focus families are the Garvers and the Whites, the former of whom share a distant relative with the Georgia based Honey Boo Boo family. Both reside on various farmlands between Nashville and Dickson, and are renown for their multi-generational feud.

"It has the lurid appeal of most of TLC's offering, skirting exploitation, but offering some of the more highbrow entertainment associated with shows like the History Channel's Hatfields and McCoys", said TV Critic Rex Malloy.

STREET RUMORS

These are loose rumors that have popped up between the last game and now. Your Storyteller is not to be trusted: some rumors listed here may be false or dead ends. Suggested rolls for downtime actions are given following some rumors, but feel free to use anything you want. What you roll determines the type of information, and the number of successes determines the amount of information.

My sister has been having nightmares. She's big into science and is reading about this meteor and how sand blows here from the Sahara, and she keeps dreaming about sand blocking the sun and making it always night. Or always day. She's a goof.

We have two real life superheroes in Nashville now. The Lord and Shimmer are absolutely cool. I hear that Chris Pine is going to play The Lord in the movie!

The meteor is not going to hit the moon: it was Nibiru's child, and it will wipe the Earth clean of all life, blotting out the sun and bringing the void back, in violation of the Lord's Word.

Underground bistros are doing poorly; demand is high, but few are really getting popular.

Afternoon Drive, 1510AM:

"Dr. Bob, how can I help you, caller?"

"My boy is doing really well in sports, and has a basketball scholarship for college. My boy will be the first in our family to go. But I found a baggie of crystals and he says it helps him win, and oh, Dear Jesus, I don't know what to do if... <sobbing>"

"Well, now listen caller, you have to get your head straight. What you do is..."

Many rumors are now handed to players, based on their connections. Find them in character!

Now that Vampire Killer, Werewolf Killer and Zombie Killer bullets have appeared in local gun stores, they are selling like hotcakes. Boxes of the shells come with free "World War Z" targets, the best selling of which are the Brad Pitt ones.

The Invictus have a powerful ally in town.

Lots of ghouls around. People are calming down... but what is with all the ghouls?

FEEDING RESISTANCE: 3

RECENTLY...

Last Game – Werewolves, Spirits and Towers, oh my! Hunters were hunted, and prophecies investigated.

Previously – Mortals who are addicted to vitae are attracting hunters cashing in on their needs. In addition, gourmet clients have found that the Kindred of the city are quite the trendy cuisine.

Previously - Blinded by the light – and although our trigger happy friends did not actually burn up, whatever it was that flashed them certainly felt like sunlight... and the Beast reacted appropriately. Meanwhile, zombie walks are getting way too realistic, and a strange, unknown creature slinks through the streets.
