Missing persons found in fire

Thomas Earl Petty

Four burned bodies were identified as tourists who had been missing since the meteor strike in late December.

Thomas Broadbend, Carlos Fanjul, Serena Uzreck of Tampa Bay, Florida and Rashell Grimes of St. Petersburg Florida, were all on vacation on the night of the strike.

Although covered in burns, their bodies were able to be identified by relatives. An unknown clear viscous substance coated their bodies, which were found wrapped in melted plastic sheeting.

Queen Beatrix to abdicate throne

George Harrison

On Monday Queen Beatrix of the Netherlands held a speech on radio and television, announcing she will abdicate the throne on April 30. Prince Willem-Alexander is to become King of the Netherlands.

In her speech, she stated her main considerations for laying down the Crown were the culmination of several events; among those are her 75th birthday on January 31, and the upcoming celebration of the 200-year anniversary of the Dutch monarchy. She also stated the "time has come for a new generation to take responsibility." The Queen expressed her gratitude toward the people of the Dutch Kingdom for their ongoing support during her reign.

Gateway Bridge Rebuild to take Only Two Months

A preliminary engineering report indicates the bridge is structurally sound and can be resurfaced.

Kenneth Garver missing

Roy Orbison

One of the stars of Hayseeds has abruptly disappeared, with law enforcement suspecting foul play.

"He were here an' now he ain't. Simple as pie", stated Luanne Garver, his niece. "I told the cops it all, but they think he run off. He just ain't." She went on to express the belief the Whites were behind the sudden disappearance, and a faith that her cousins would be able to set things right.

"Two shakes of a tail", she stated.

The television show, set to start airing in March, covers the local families the Garvers and the Whites. Both families have been living in the Nashville area for many generations, and the Garvers are distantly related to the Georgia based Honey Boo Boo family. Both families are renowned for their multi-generational feud.

Explosions in the city of Dakar

Jeff Lynne

A small and unidentified group, heavily armed and without a clear goal, rampaged through the city of Dakar on the western coast of north Africa.

Leaving almost no witnesses alive, the small army moved through the core of the city, killing as they went. At Dakar-Yoff-Leopold Sedar Senghor International Airport, they burned several jetliners, whose smoldering rubble formed large crosses on the concourse.

Finally arriving at the coast, the group apparently fled in boats, although the local Navy was unable to locate their ship.

Local chef Antoine Levy of Chez Béan witnessed events from afar, "It was sudden, and I thought we were being bombed. They moved faster than I could see, and destroyed like tanks."

There's a cure for Jump addiction. But it's not available in clinics. If you know the right people, they can help.

I heard on Facebook that Hayseeds is actually a Twilight knock-off, like Vampire Diaries. Such sellouts!

Those military guys don't seem to be arresting anybody, but violence downtown seems to be dropping.

People are starting to act crazy. What the hell is going on?

The ghost of James K. Polk hasn't been seen on the last several ghost tours. Whatever they did to make that cool illusion must be broken.

Due to a broken arm, there are no personal rumors. Thank Vicodin for the fact there's a Gazette this week!

Now that Vampire Killer, Werewolf Killer and Zombie Killer bullets have appeared in local gun stores, they are selling like hotcakes. Boxes of the shells come with free "Justin Beiber" posters. Alas, they were misprinted with Keith Urban's face, causing many to complain that Beiber looked too dainty.

There is a power vacuum open, and nobody seems to see it. While there are those who spend the Danse Macabre in certain mortal circles, none in our society controls it.

The Carthians are up to something. Lots of banner waving and meetings. They march into Elysium and mutter in each other's ears.

Ghouls still plague the city in larger numbers than are reasonable.

Dead bodies continue to appear around town, more and more subtle, as if those involved are getting better at hunting. They also seem to be piling up in the most popular hunting grounds.

RECENTLY...

Last Game – Okay, seriously... the city fought Ents and set the Cumberland ablaze. However, whoever it was that was making the vitae produce seems to be dead, along with the dogbeasts. What's next? Nukes for Neonates?

Previously – The city decided that, although Friday was a good day to get down, that Saturday was even better. And to have shootouts in downtown Nashville. Yee haw!

Previously – And hell shall follow after: a chunk of the moon hit the city. Frantic action preserved the veneer of civilization, but something broke the city – maybe the world – around LP Field, and the full ramifications have yet to be determined.

Previously – While looking for answers, we spoke to the heathen gods of the Circle of the Crone. Alas, we also found that the Parthenon is claimed by another powerful group.

Previously – Werewolves, Spirits and Towers, oh my! Hunters were hunted, and prophecies investigated.
