Children have new Options for Fun

Veronica Platow

Rainbow Paint and Play in Brentwood is offering a new option for parents wanting a night out. A well loved and popular arts and crafts center offering ceramics painting and sculpting, they have historically closed at 9pm.

Starting on the first of February, every Saturday night they are going to offer late hours and a babysitting service. Children will have the option to paint ceramics, sculpt with clay, learn how to glaze and fire pottery, and have the option to work on special Saturday night only crafts.

The fee is $25 per child, with only $15 extra per sibling. Identical twins are two for the price of one. Reservations and requests can be made at (814) 889-8845.

Strange samples have been recovered from areas around Nashville in recent weeks.

Metro Police are Embracing Tech

Karl Wirth

Recent investments by the Nashville police department have shown how the metro officers are stepping into the 21st century. Arial drones, bomb sniffing robots, and new speeding detection technology are just some examples of this new growth.

Drones are certainly not unprecedented technology. They have been used by the military for years. Consumer giant Amazon.com has begun exploring the possibility of using the drones as delivery vehicles, a prospect met with both ridicule and fascination.

Bomb sniffing devices operate by detecting minute particles. As the effectiveness of dogs in his task has been called to question, mechanical devices are receiving a warmer and warmer reception.

Minor Earthquake Rattles Nashville

Devon Filner

A minor temblor, the barest hint of an earthquake, shook Nashville early Thursday morning. With only unconfirmed reports of minor damage from falling items, the 3.8 magnitude quake did not cause any loss of life or injuries.

“We get these now and then,” said geologist Dr. Wen Long. “I wouldn't be concerned, although people who live on areas prone to sink holes may want to look for cracks in the earth, subsidence or other hints that there may be problems to come for them.”

He went on to explain that, “Nashville and the surrounding states are riddled with caves, some quite famously part of our history. They point to these areas being relatively stable on a long scale of time.”

STREET RUMORS

These are loose rumors that have popped up between the last game and now. Your Storyteller is not to be trusted: some rumors listed here may be false or dead ends. Suggested rolls for downtime actions are given following some rumors, but feel free to use anything you want. What you roll determines the type of information, and the number of successes determines the amount of information.

Don't forget to read the newspaper for the PUBLIC news to look into!

Emo is back. Or at least really boring people are trying to get attention by just moping around. (Composure+Empathy, Wits+Investigation, Manipulation+ Socialize)

Have you seen the new e-cig shops opening up in Antioch? They are kind of creepy, but they offer the best deals – better even than the internet!

I saw Saint Christina downtown, and had a dream telling me where to find the money my no good dead husband hid from me.

Hayseeds continues to cause protests. It looks like the local conspiracy minded bible thumpers have added it to their regular set of “things we are outraged about”, like D&D and Obamacare. (Presence+Socialize, Intelligence+Computer)

Harpy rumors are in effect: Grill them for rumors!

You may be able to add a rumor as a downtime.

Antioch sucks. Literally. I've heard there's a pack of diablerists controlling it. Somebody should do something.

There was an armored convoy from the airport to the AT&T building. Some of the guards were kindred. What are they building in there?

A new Revenant showed up in Franklin, and has been making waves. I hate those damn shadow cults, but he certainly has a purpose.

Antioch will fall outside of the claim of the throne of Nashville within months.

There's been a coup in Franklin. New bodies in power, although it seems to still be Carthian. They don't like the Carthians in Nashville for some reason.

FEEDING RESISTANCE: 3

Do a hunting draw, subtract the above from your pool. Success: start full. Failure: start down four or twice your blood potency, whichever is larger. You may run a feeding scene to “top off”.

If you are unaligned, add three to the above.

2014-01-18: Leaders Tested by Battle

The aftermath of the Invictus internal struggle lingered as messages of various sorts were delivered. Jack Cade and Homeland Security continued their focus on the Carthians and the fire in the server room of the AT&T building, with rumors of connections to local groups swirling. Meanwhile, searching for the former hunter allies resulted in an attack in an alleyway. A quick reversal of fortune netted two more hunter bodies.

The hunters, having had two of three cells destroyed, were finally tracked down to their final redoubt at a cement plant. Owen, Lazarus, and Stephen headed out to end the hunter menace. The experienced and well prepared humans proved to be quite a match for the three, and Owen returned with major injuries, and Stephen returned with a major wound through his torso and a nearly severed neck.

Meanwhile, the Circle of the Crone were suspiciously absent from court, having some kind of major ongoing meeting involving the whole covenant. Of course, the reconsecration of their recently defiled Circle may not be something they wish to share with the class.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Blood and Smoke is out, and we are using the new rules. The print edition is on the way, and we have four house copies of the core mechanics. I highly recommend reading through the book, as it is a much more interesting and fun game than any yet published.

Condition and Boon cards are now being given out. They contain everything needed to roleplay them.

The new website is about to go live, as is the online Requiem game. If you know people who might be interested, let them know.

If you're interested in helping write the “Previously in Requiem”, let Evan know.
