Romance in the Nashville Air

Harvey Specter

Local celeb Missy Tennenbaum and Nashville entertainment exec Ridley Johnson share a true Nashville love story. Missy moved to Music city seven years ago from Nebraska to pursue her musical dreams. After landing a job as a waitress at local landmark Bluebird Cafe, she struck it lucky.

"I was taking out the trash one night," she recalls, "whistling this tune I had stuck in my brain all day. I head back to the restaurant and this man in a too fancy suit is stepping out of his car and looking at me like he's simple."

"I was driving past the Bluebird and suddenly had a flat tire," Ridley continues, "so, I pull into the parking lot and am suddenly absolutely captivated by this tune that seems to be coming from nowhere. Then this vision steps from behind the dumpster and I was awestruck. Love at first song."

Neither Missy nor Ridley are Nashville natives. Their whirlwind romance has followed them on the road - New York, LA, and all tour stops in between. "But," as Missy says, "there's just something about Nashville that just keeps calling us back."

Animal Mystery on Sunday Morning Body found in Cumberland

Mike Ross

Two weeks ago, a handful of Nashville residents took to Twitter to comment on the odd behavior of their pets. Posts to Facebook from others spoke of strange actions of wildlife. After putting the various events together by chance, a biology team at TSU sought out video footage that revealed a startling event: all across Nashville, at precisely 4:26am, animals stood shocked and then fled in unison.

"This kind of behavior has been seen in conjunction with natural disasters, and if the timeline matched the recent earthquake, I would not have been surprised. The strange thing is, there appears to be no causative event," said Dr. Frank Marné, the primary investigator on the team.

Since that night, many have spoken up saying that they had uneasy dreams or felt something themselves. One woman tweeted her dream: "The Angels of Death Stood and Judged, And Passed Us By!"

The body of a tentatively identified fifty year old woman has been pulled out of the Cumberland river near Bicentennial Park. The body was described by onlookers as covered in white, orange sized spheres and riddled with wide holes.

"We was tossing rocks in, and it bobbed up," said a local child who was the first to spot the body. "I started yelling, but nobody paid any attention. It wasn't until an adult saw it that people paid any mind."

Law enforcement had not made an official statement by press time.

NASHVILLE UNVEILED - REQUIEM

STREET RUMORS

These are loose rumors that have popped up between the last game and now. Your Storyteller is not to be trusted: some rumors listed here may be false or dead ends. Suggested rolls for downtime actions are given following some rumors, but feel free to use anything you want. What you roll determines the type of information, and the number of successes determines the amount of information.

Don't forget to read the newspaper for the PUBLIC news to look into!

Emo is back. Or at least really boring people are trying to get attention by just moping around. (Composure+Empathy, Wits+Investigation, Manipulation+ Socialize)

Have you seen the new e-cig shops opening up in Antioch? They are kind of creepy, but they offer the best deals – better even than the internet!

People in the Gulch are having visions. Some hipsters are moving out, while others are moving in to get on the scene early.

Hayseeds continues to cause protests. It looks like the local conspiracy minded bible thumpers have added it to their regular set of “things we are outraged about”, like D&D and Obamacare. (Presence+Socialize, Intelligence+Computer)

Harpy rumors are in effect: Grill them for rumors!

You may be able to add a rumor as a downtime.

Antioch sucks. Literally. I've heard there's a pack of diablerists controlling it. Somebody should do something.

There was an armored convoy from the airport to the AT&T building. Some of the guards were kindred. What are they building in there?

Antioch can be considered to no longer be under the throne of Nashville. There are new kindred active in the area and a small number of kindred known to have been in that area have disappeared.

The Carthians and the Lancea are in cahoots. There's some kind of Modern Miracle being created.

There's been a coup in Franklin. New bodies in power, although it seems to still be Carthian. They don't like the Carthians in Nashville for some reason.

FEEDING RESISTANCE: 3

Do a hunting draw, subtract the above from your pool. Success: start full. Failure: start down four or twice your blood potency, whichever is larger. You may run a feeding scene to “top off”.

If you are unaligned, add three to the above.

2014-02-01: Stilettos and Derringers

Sigurd was claimed by the Nosferatu Primogen. There was some disagreement raised as to whether the prisoner was a city matter or a clan matter. The Prince was absent and the Seneschal ruled in the Clan's favor in his absence. Methos returned to the city, to the dismay of some, amusement of others, and curiosity of all. Some wish him dead or worse.

Sigurd caused some mischief in court that ended with Methos getting staked in Elysium. The Master, who had been standing by all night, asserted his right of rule over matters of Elysium. An argument began over the question of the Master overstepping, at which point the Seneschal tried to call a new Elysium, bringing the city to the verge of a feeding frenzy, the most potent kindred preparing to devour the younger members of the city. Panicked at the revelation how important the structure of the Danse Macabre is to keeping order, the Seneschal relinquished her bid to seize the city, and Elysium was restored.

To the city, the Lancea remain as politically agnostic as ever. Then there is that matter of the scar under the Frist and someone (or something) that might be named Grim.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Blood and Smoke is out, and we are using the new rules. The print edition is here, we have at least two copies of the book, and we have four house copies of the core mechanics. I highly recommend reading through the book, as it is a much more interesting and fun game than any yet published.

Condition and Boon cards are now being given out. They contain everything needed to roleplay them.

The new website is complete, and the online Requiem game starts next weekend. Tap here for XP. If you know people who might be interested, let them know.

If you're interested in helping write the “Previously in Requiem”, let Evan know.
